Leadership is far from a science. Many would even argue that it is more of a form of art. Since effective leadership means different things to different people, I wanted to dive a little deeper into this debate to glean a better understanding as to what great leaders do. It consists of a convergence of art and science.

Art is a one-way street, and science is a two-way street (Ahmed, 2012). Several leadership theories exist in leadership literature, and most of the theories focus on art.

Is Leadership an Art or Science? - linkedin.com

If leadership was a science I believe it would be easier to teach, model and implement. Leadership is a mind set that requires thinking, acting in the moment and comes from who you are. Leadership is a fluid process and the form it takes is ever changing. That is more reminiscent of art than science.
